NOTES

Please keep a copy of this document for your records and make a note of the date that it was provided to your neighbour.

Section 245XL(1) of the Building Act 1975 encourages adjoining owners to resolve issues about fencing work to avoid a dispute arising. Adjoining owners can arrive at any agreement in relation to a pool barrier on a common boundary, notwithstanding the provisions of the Building Act 1975. For example, owners can agree to reduced notice times, use of non-prescribed materials or altered contribution amounts.

If you can not come to an agreement you may apply to the Tribunal for orders about fencing work under section 245XQ of the Building Act 1975.

² In general where there is only one pool involved the pool owner can build a pool barrier on a common boundary if they provide 14 days notice, the proposed fence meets the requirements of the pool safety standard and the fence is constructed from prescribed materials (set out in section 13(3) of the Neighbourhood Disputes Resolution Act 2011 and listed on the New rules for dividing fences which also serve as a pool barrier fact sheet. Where there is an existing dividing fence the pool owner is also required to use similar materials and colours as the existing fence, unless this would prevent compliance with the pool safety standard. In addition where the existing fencing is more than 1800 millimetres high, the replacement fence must be the same height unless otherwise agreed. For a more detailed explanation of the relevant rules please refer to the fact sheet.

³ Where a pool barrier is 1800 millimetres high, climbing objects on the adjoining land do not affect compliance with the pool safety standard.

⁴ Fencing work can include construction of a new fence, repair of an existing fence, replacement of a fence, and modification of a fence. Fencing work can also include surveying or preparation of land and trimming, lopping or removal of vegetation along the common boundary.

⁶ Any request for access should be reasonable and limited to that part of the adjoining land necessary to do the fencing work—e.g. two metre strip next to the proposed fencing work. Reasonable access times should be proposed—e.g. between 7 am and 7 pm.
